

CARBONDALE HISTORICAL SOCIETY members attended grand reopening ceremonies in room 301 at Carbondale City Hall last Sunday. S. Robert Powell remarked on the society's restoration project, the room's past history, and the intended future use of the room. Coinciding with the reopening of the room is an exhibit of photographs submitted for the second annual photo contest of the "Metro" magazine. Some of the photographs can be seen in the background. Room 301 is located on the previously unused third floor of City Hall, in the clock tower portion of the building.